

"OLDEST PERSON IN WORLD" DIES AT 137

Ga-be-nah-gewn-wonce, or John Smith, Was Chippewa Firemaker.

CASS LAKE, Minn., Feb. 8.—Ga-be-nah-gewn-wonce, also known as John Smith, a Chippewa Indian reputed to be 137 years old, died here yesterday of pneumonia.

The United States Bureau of Indian Affairs, the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, and other historical societies had been led to accept the claim of Ga-be-nah-gewn-wonce and his fellow Indians that he was "the oldest living person in the world."

Also known as Wah-ha-gonia, he was firemaker of the Blackfoot tribe. He outlived several wives, and when long past the century mark he was still young enough to woo another.

The "falling of the stars," the shower of meteors that occurred in 1833, he recalled minutely. He was about forty years old at that time.
